Gensler Re-Creates Iconic Texas A&M Tree Using Aluminum Wall Sheets

"We love the contextual that we were able to bring school spirit and iconic imagery into the space through the use of aluminum wall sheets," said Kelli Gann, principal at Gensler. "It's a unique material and one that we haven't used before in such a significant way."

"We were able to create the look and feel of the old live oaks and even the large mesquite trees," Gann said. "We wanted to create an environment that was welcoming and engaging for the students and faculty."
